Pr celds of the Convention.

For the accommodation of the delegates who will leave on the special trains to-morrow, we shall publish an extra on Sunday morning, containing the full proceedings of the Convention. All who desire copies must leave their orders at our office to-day.

The Convention.

The Convention which will assemble this morning in the Capitol promises to be the largest in number—the fullest in representation of the various counties of the State—and the best in point of material—which has ever been held in Frankfort. We believe that every county will be represented; and although the number of votes is limited to 687, the number of delegates will far exceed that amount. Last night the several Congressional district delegations held separate meetings, and elected each one vice president and two members for each of the important committees, viz: upon resolutions and upon State organization. In regard to the character of the resolutions which will be adopted, it is generally understood and agreed that the Cincinnati platform will be re-affirmed; the Dred Scott decision indorsed; and a general approval of the acts of the National Administration expressed in hearty terms. We think the Convention will also express itself in favor of the speedy acquisition of Cuba, in a special resolution upon that subject.

We offer no surmises as to the nominations. For the principal office the contest will be close, and no one at this time can certainly predict the result. The canvass for the various nominations is being conducted, at the time we go to press, in a brisk and spirited manner; but the very best feeling prevails, and this state of things we confidently hope and believe will continue to the end. Of one result we are fully satisfied—the ticket nominated to-day will carry Kentucky by 20,000 majority.

At the time we write, a large portion of the Democracy assembled here are holding a sort of "love feast" in the Hall of Representatives, and are being entertained with "exhortations" and "experiences" from leading members of the party from the different sections of the State. We regret having lost many of the good things said in the State House last night.

The Editorial Fraternity.

We notice the arrival in the city of a large number of the Democratic editors, among them Col. Sam. Pike, of the Covington Globe; Col. John H. Harney and Wm. E. Hughes, of the Louisville Democrat; Col. R. T. Durrett, W. N. Haldeman, and Walter Overton, of the Louisville Courier; Robert McKee, Maysville Express; Thos. B. Monroe, Lexington Statesman; Col. R. S. Ford, Elizabethtown Democrat; Col. John C. Noble, Paducah Herald; W. D. Gentry, Hopkinsville Press; E. A. Gibbons, Harrodsburg Transcript; John G. Craddock, Paris Flag; J. A. Bell, Georgetown Gazette; H. B. Frayser, Bowling-green Standard; Edward F. Turner, Richmond Democrat; and George Buell, of the Cincinnati Enquirer.

HOPKINS COUNTY.—We regret very much that the proceedings of the meeting held in Hopkins county on the 21st of December, have not been published in our paper. Through mistake they were misplaced, and we have not been able to get a copy of them. Hopkins county held a meeting in May last, and recommended Col. Wm. Bradley, of that county, for Governor. The meeting held last month, besides again putting Col. Bradley's name before the Democracy, also instructed her delegates to vote for Jno. S. Bryan, Esq., for Register. Hopkins county has nine votes.

WE are requested to say that Elder W. Y. Moore will preach in the Christian Church to-morrow (Lord's day) at 11 o'clock, A. M. Subject—"The inductive method of reasoning applied to the Scriptures, or the rationale of Christian Union." The subject is one of general interest, and from the reputation of the speaker, we hazard nothing in saying that it will be discussed in a manner commensurate with its importance.

POLITICAL TEXT BOOK.—Politicians, and others who wish to procure in convenient form a history of the most important political events which have taken place in our country, should subscribe for "The Political Text Book, or Encyclopaedia," edited by M. W. Cluskey. It is published in the best style, and well arranged for reference. H. Whittingham is the agent, and will call on visitors to-day for the purpose of procuring subscribers.

THE DEMOCRATIC VOTE OF THE NORTH AND WEST IN 1856 AND 1858.

The following table of official returns of the elections in 1856 and 1858, in the most important northern and western States, shows that the Democracy have received immense re-inforcements to their ranks since 1856, and that thousands of men who voted against us have seen cause to change their views:

	DEMOCRAT.	OPPOSITION.
Michigan	58,768	52,739
Wisconsin	55,261	52,842
Iowa	46,083	36,170
Illinois	127,893	105,248
New York	230,412	199,878
Indiana	107,409	116,670
Ohio	162,606	176,974
Maine	51,236	29,480
	690,264	770,899
	770,290	901,246
	65,465	66,733

The Democratic vote in the above States has increased 65,265 since 1856, while the Opposition vote has diminished 68,733.

List of Delegates.

On yesterday the delegates who had arrived were requested to report themselves at this office, in order that a printed list might be furnished this morning for the use of the Convention. In the hurry and confusion consequent upon the arrival of so many at once, and a scramble for lodging, it was not to be expected that all the counties could report up to the time our paper went to press. We append the list of delegates for the sixty-one counties which did report:

Who shall be Nominated?

MR. EDITOR: It has ever been a controlling idea with the Democratic party of Kentucky that those who have made the greatest sacrifices in our cause, and met with the least reward, should be honored in the bestowment of office. This has encouraged our friends to labor for the success of the party through long years of gloom and despondency, and whenever called upon to hoist our standard and defy the opposition majority. Defeat has but too often been their lot; but when our gallant leaders one after another would fall, they would be encouraged by the approving voices of their comrades, and hope to see the day when the verdict of the people of the State would be reversed, trusting in the verity of the sentiment that republics are not ungrateful. Of course qualification for office is not to be overlooked; it is, in fact, indispensable. But those whom we have entrusted with leadership in days gone by were then considered worthy and well qualified, and are none the less so now.

These reflections have arisen upon a careful review of the canvass now going on for the nomination of a candidate for Governor. In 1836, Judge Hise, as the Democratic candidate for Lieut. Governor, ably and nobly fought for our principles, and fell battling under our standard—a willing sacrifice upon the altar of Democracy. Year after year he battled on, without regard to personal consequences, and although defeat after defeat overtook his party, and him as its leader, he stood erect like a giant oak of the forest, unterrified by the commotion of the elements. His congressional district, as well as the State, was overwhelmingly against us—he ran for Congress, and was of course defeated. His county was, perhaps, more anti-Democratic than any other, and even legislative honors were denied him. At almost every Presidential election he has been a Democratic elector, either for his district or the State at large, making such canvasses as he alone can make. In the dark days of our party it was his clarion voice and commanding eloquence that on every 8th of January inspired the Democracy with renewed zeal and confidence at the State conventions of our party. Are all these things to be forgotten, and Judge Hise never to receive his reward? It is for the party now to decide! A Judge of the Court of Appeals, he delivered his famous dissent against the power of railroad corporations to tax to death the productive industry of the country by means of county taxation imposed upon unwilling minorities—a burden imposed upon the people to build up private corporations, and which will not be got rid of in many instances, for generations to come. The great Democratic doctrine of "equal rights to all and exclusive privileges to none" have been his guiding star; and the blessing of posterity at least will be vouchsafed him for his able defense of the right.

It is understood that Judge Hise will accept the nomination if tendered him by the Convention. He has not labored to secure it, and it is presumed that he would be as acceptably to the friends of other aspirants as any man in the State. Next to him in point of desert for services and sacrifices to our cause, is Beriah Magoffin, one of our gallant standard-bearers in the memorable canvass against Know-Nothingism in 1855. Although not present when the nomination was bestowed upon him, and not at all expecting it, he did not hesitate for a moment to accept it buckled on his armor, and fought valiantly throughout the campaign. That he "bit the dust" was not his fault nor that of his devoted and enthusiastic followers. He was borne down by the relentless tide of the dark-lantern organization—the dumb eloquence of numbers. When the burden of our cause, without any prospect of reward, was thrown upon him, although absent, he did not shrink back; and now that his friends seek that his services shall be gratefully remembered, shall the party coldly turn its back upon him and shut the door? He, too, has often served us in the capacity of elector in Presidential campaigns; and in whatever position the party has placed him, has worked freely, and done good service. With the exception of a single session in the legislature, (that of 1850-51,) he has never been rewarded for his services.

Without disparagement to the claim of ability of other gentlemen, it is believed that Hise or Magoffin should be nominated. Let us remember those who have worked so faithfully and so ably, and have met so little reward.

JUSTICE.

Hon. Linn Boyd.—This distinguished gentleman is at present in our city, stopping at the Louisville Hotel. He has hosts of friends who are warmly urging his nomination for Governor, and his prospects are now most certainly and decidedly promising. Mr. Boyd is one of the finest specimens of our old line National Democrats that can be found in all the land—such a man at the South can rely on in all emergencies.

Mr. Grant Green is a candidate for the office of Auditor of Public Accounts. He is no candidate for the office of Superintendent of Public Instruction. The impression is general that he is a candidate for the latter office, because he was the candidate for that office in 1856. He is well known to the Democracy of the State, and is highly competent for the position to which he aspires.—Lou. Dem.

CHURCHES.

For the benefit of strangers in the city, who may wish to attend Divine service on to-morrow, we publish below a list of the churches in the city, and the hours of service:

EPISCOPAL.—Rev. J. N. Norton, pastor.—Services at 11 o'clock, A. M. In the afternoon, at half past 3 o'clock, sermon by Rev. R. M. Murdy.

Lunch! Lunch!

The citizens of Frankfort and the delegates to the Democratic Convention, who feel an interest in the education and care of the friendless orphan, are respectfully invited to partake of a lunch, at 12 o'clock, to-day (Saturday.) Don't forget the lunch at 12, M., and bestow a mite for those deprived of parental care.

Attorney General—Judge Thomas, of Lexington.

Messrs. Editors: As the time is near at hand when the Democracy are to select her standard-bearers for the ensuing contest for political supremacy in the State, it is proper that the claims and qualifications of those who may be deemed worthy of such honors, should be considered and published, so that the convention may be able to act wisely and in eligence in the choice of candidates to be called upon to make. While it is the pride and boast of the Democracy that her ranks are filled with men whose talents and characters would lend a lustre and dignity to any of the various offices which are to be filled, it is not less a subject of pride that they are always actuated by a generous and self-sacrificing spirit, which leads them cheerfully to assume any position which the party, through its authorized representatives, may think proper to assign them—whether as privates in the ranks, or leaders of the column. It is in this spirit that the excellent gentleman whose name heads this notice, is suggested in connection with the office of Attorney General; for though I speak without his authority or knowledge, I know I would do him injustice if I did not say that, as he does not force himself upon the notice of the party, so he would cheerfully forego any action the convention may think proper to take.

Among the gentlemen whose names will be before the convention in connection with the office of Attorney General, it is believed that there will be none whose claims will merit more consideration, whether on the score of qualifications, or availability, than Judge Thomas. To an intellect of a high order, he adds an elevation of character, and a dignity of manner, which we naturally associate with high and honorable trust, while his legal attainments and judicial experience eminently fit him for the office of Attorney General. So much for his qualifications. On the score of availability, there are few men whose character combines the elements of popularity in so high a degree, for besides being a ready and strong speaker, his natural manner, untutored dignity and self-reliance, in such a degree as never fails to attract to him all those who may be thrown in his company. His judicial position, which he has filled for the last eight years—having been twice elected to the bench of the City Court of Lexington—has withheld him from an active participation in the politics of the State, though he has never ceased to feel a deep interest in the success of the party in which he was born—yet he has always been regarded as among the most influential advisers in the local council of the party in this county. Though comparatively unknown to the party before this section of the State, it is believed that he needs but an opportunity to convince them that they have in him a champion whose wisdom in council and gallantry in action may at all times be relied upon. Should the convention think proper to assign him the honor here claimed for him, it is believed that none will carry the standard of the party higher, or more gallantly, and whether success or defeat shall await us, none will deserve less blame for the one, or more credit for the other; for none will go into the fight with more courage, energy, tact, and talent.

With these remarks his name is respectfully presented to the consideration of the convention. FAYETTE.

Rheumatism Cured.

To the readers of the Yeoman: Preserve this notice. If not afflicted yourself, you may persevere suffering humanity by sending it to some one who is.

Dr. Mortimore, by personal treatment, and the use of his remedy, by Physicians and Druggists, has cured probably twenty thousand cases of this painful and paralyzing disease—comprising cases of every seeming form, from those of a recent inflammatory (acute) character, to old chronic cases of ten, twenty, and even thirty years' standing.

This disease is becoming more prevalent every year, and is seldom cured, or even alleviated, by the usual course of treatment. In its active form it often proves fatal, or if not soon arrested, becomes chronic—stiffens the joints, contracts the ligaments, muscles, and tendons, and thus renders the sufferer a cripple for life, or if ever afterwards cured, even by the use of this remedy, requires longer treatment and greater expense.

This is a vegetable internal remedy which cures the proprietor of it after long suffering, and all the usual remedies known had failed, and is safe to be used in any state of health—even by the most delicate female or child, and its success, in curing rheumatism, is attested by thousands, among whom are eminent physicians, ministers of various denominations, prominent journalists, and individuals of high standing throughout our country, such as should inspire confidence in every rational mind.

This evidence can be had on call at the office; or those at a distance, by addressing the proprietor, will receive, by mail, a circular of evidence. The remedy can be had at $5 per bottle, or five bottles for $20. Persons ordering at
